

Form E-1A for Boston College "Literature Core" Course Assessment
Dept. of Romance Languages & Literatures (May 2020)

Courses Involved: SPAN 3395 "Contextos: Introduction to Literary Analysis of Hispanic Literary Texts" (one course with 4 separate sections)

1) Have formal learning outcomes been developed?

Students enrolled in RLL Literature Core courses will be expected, at the end of the course, to demonstrate the following abilities:

- ¶ Students will demonstrate the ability to read and evaluate texts critically.
- ¶ Students will demonstrate mastery of mature, effective expository prose, able to analyze texts and issues with logical coherence, clarity and engagement.
- ¶ Students will demonstrate an understanding of the differences between literary genres.
- ¶ Students will recognize the major texts of the target culture(s) pertaining to the specific themes, questions, problems or time period examined in the course.
- ¶ Students will be able to identify and analyze the distinctive features of literary productions.

2) Where are these learning outcomes published?

They are published on the "Undergraduate Program" page of the RLL Department website:
<https://www.bc.edu/bc-web/schools/mcas/departments/romance-languages/undergraduate-programs.html>

3. Other than GPA, what data/evidence is used to determine whether graduates have achieved the stated outcomes for the degree? (What evidence and analytical approaches do you use to assess which of the student learning outcomes are being achieved more or less well?)

- A. Direct Evidence: Analysis in-class discussions, quizzes and exams, and a representative sampling of final papers.
- B. Indirect Evidence: Student survey. An online student survey is administered in each Lit Core class, asking how well they believe they have achieved the learning outcomes, what they found especially helpful, and what suggestions they have for improvement of the course in future iterations.

This year, in carrying out our assessment, we chose to focus on the specific Learning Outcome: "Students will demonstrate mastery of mature, effective expository prose, able to analyze texts and issues with logical coherence, clarity and engagement."

- C. Faculty Group Discussion: Under the direction of the RLL dept. Core liaison (F. Mormando, who is), the Lit Core Instructors meet as a group to share their experiences and impressions of the semester regarding their work with their students in their progress towards the Learning Outcomes.

4) Who interprets the evidence? What is the process? (Who in the department is responsible for interpreting the data and making recommendations for curriculum or assignment changes if appropriate? When does this occur?)

The evidence is interpreted by the instructors of the four sections in question meeting together as a group with the Department Chair who is the official Core Curriculum "liaison" person. The results of the student surveys and the subsequent discussions by the instructors of the four sections and the chair are then also shared with and discussed by the entire FT faculty of the department, who might suggest revisions in light of the collective experience of the department in Core courses that they have taught in past semesters.

5) What changes have been made as a result of using the data/evidence? (Have there been any recent changes to your curriculum or program? Why were they made?)

Results of 2020 Assessment Process:

As far as direct evidence is concerned, the consensus was that by and large the students had achieved this outcome, to varying degrees, from "acceptable" to "excellent." The skill of expository writing is one that we have long worked on in all of our department courses, as it is essential to study and work in the humanities, and is an important "life skill" for most future employment: the ability to express oneself clearly and logically and engagingly. It is one that takes much practice to perfect, especially in a foreign language, especially since many students arrive at college without the full necessary training in this skill in high school.

As far as "indirect evidence" (students' own perceptions as registered in the online Questionnaire) is concerned this year, disappointingly, we only received 12 responses from the total of 31 students enrolled this semester in our "Contextos" course -- this was due to the coronavirus crisis which meant that, unlike in the past, there was less opportunity to encourage and enforce compliance with our request to complete the survey. However, of the 12, all but one student "strongly" or "mildly" agreed that this LO had been achieved.

Recent Curricular Changes Based on 2019 Assessment Results: No curricular changes were made last year since our Assessment process concluded that available evidence last year clearly indicated that all Lit Core students evaluated met the proficiency requirement with respect to last year's designated Learning Outcome.

6) Date of the most recent program review. (Your latest comprehensive departmental self-study and external review.)

The last Self-study and External Review were carried out in 2010.
