Additional Teaching Interests: American Political Development; American Government; Lawyers and Judges; American Legal History; American Legal Thought; Administrative Law; Legislation/Statutory Interpretation.

I have served as a member of more than twenty-five Ph.D. dissertation committees (at Princeton and BC, and as an external member at Cornell (Chair: Richard Bensen), Brandeis (Chair: Daniel Kryder), and Princeton (Chair: Keith Whittington; Chair: Paul Frymer), as well as in the History Department at BC (Chair: Heather Cox Richardson).

I have supervised over eighty undergraduate senior theses and many independent studies “readings and research” courses. Many of the theses I have supervised have won departmental, college, and university-wide “best thesis” prizes. Boston College students I have taught and worked with closely over the years have gone on to attend law school at Boston College, Boston University, Suffolk, New England, Yale, Harvard, Columbia, NYU, Cornell, UC-Berkeley, Stanford, Georgetown, Duke, Case Western, Fordham, Villanova, George Washington, Rutgers-Newark, George Mason, Wake Forest, Stetson, UIC-John Marshall, the University of Virginia, William and Mary, Notre Dame, the University of Chicago, Northwestern, the University of Michigan and others, M.A. programs at Brown, Columbia, Stanford, Sciences Po, Oxford, Harvard, Northwestern, the University of Leiden, the University of Hawaii, the University of North Carolina, and the University of Pennsylvania, and Ph.D. programs in Political Science at Cornell, the University of Pennsylvania, Johns Hopkins, Princeton, and UCLA. My students have clerked on the Supreme Judicial Court of Massachusetts, for numerous U.S. District court judges, for federal judges on the U.S. Courts of Appeals for the First, Second, Third, Fourth, Sixth, Seventh, Ninth, and District of Columbia Circuits, and on the U.S. Supreme Court (for the Chief Justice of the United States). They have also won Truman and Fulbright Scholarships, and worked for the Jesuit Volunteer Corps, Teach for America, and the Peace Corps, served as U.S. military officers and as assistant U.S. attorneys, legal aid lawyers, and public defenders, as legislative and campaign aides, analysts, advisors, and assistants, as venture capitalists, and as corporate legal directors and general counsels. They have also founded and directed NetChoice’s Litigation Center, served as Senior Investigative Counsel for the U.S. House of Representatives January 6 Committee, and been named Selma, Alabama “Teacher of the Year.”
