8. PEDAGOGY CONTRIBUTIONS

Expert Panel Member

The UK's National Centre for Research Methods (NCRM) has undertaken a new research project into the teaching and learning of advanced research methods within the international social science community. I was selected as one of ten international expert panel members who participated in interviews and focus groups on the pedagogy of research methods. See link: <http://pedagogy.ncrm.ac.uk/>

Expert Contributor to Documentary Pink & Blue: The Colors of Hereditary Cancer

I appear in this documentary speaking about the psychosocial impacts of hereditary cancer. I was one of a few science and social science experts around the U.S. that was asked to contribute to the documentary Pink & Blue: The Colors of Hereditary Cancer (see: <http://www.prnewswire.com/news-releases/documentary-pink--blue-colors-of-hereditary-cancer-to-screen-in-san-antonio-300189677.html>) which is now qualified for two academy award considerations. It just won Best Feature Documentary award at the Women's Independent Film Festival.
