

Movie and Talk on

“1987: WHEN THE DAY COMES”

(Director Jang Joon-hwan, 2017)

Wednesday, March 27, 2019, 5 PM to 8 PM

Devlin Hall 101, Boston College

‘1987: When the Day Comes’ is a film based on the true story of how the January 1987 torture death of a university student at the hands of the South Korean police touched off months of demonstrations by students, Christian and other pro-democracy activists—eventually joined by thousands of ordinary citizens—and by June 1987 sparked huge protests that led to historically significant democratic change in South Korea, putting an end to decades of dictatorial rule.

Event Schedule

5:00 - 5:10 Picking up food and water (free Korean food provided)

5:10 - 5:15 Opening remarks:

Mr. Yonghyon Kim (Consul-General of the Korean Consulate in Boston)

Prof. Christina Klein (Professor in English; Acting Director of BC Asian Studies Program)

5:15 - 5:35 Pre-screening remarks:

Moderated by Korea Foundation Visiting Assistant Professor Ingu Hwang (Boston College)

Prof. Edward Baker (Associate Director (Retired), Harvard Yenching Institute)

Mr. Daniel Fu (student, Political Science/Economics, Boston College)

Mr. Jonathan Baccay (student, History, Boston College)

Mr. Alex Lee and Yaozu Chen (students, Winchester High School, MA)

5:35 - 7:45 Screening

7:45 - 8:00 Post-screening discussion

Moderated by Dr. Seung Hee Jeon (Lecturer in Korean, Boston College)

CO-SPONSORS:

BC International Studies Program, BC Lynch School of Education
BC Department of Slavic and Eastern Languages and Literatures,
BC Department of History, BC O’Neill Library,
BC Korean Student Association, CJ Entertainment

THIS EVENT IS FREE AND OPEN TO THE PUBLIC

For any questions, please contact
Korea Foundation Visiting Assistant Professor Ingu Hwang
(ingu.hwang@bc.edu)